

ATTENTION VOTERS

In Iowa the Primary Election is considered as part of the nominating process for the political parties to pick their candidates for the fall election.

Iowa Code [43.42, 43.43] requires that all voters in a Primary Election MUST declare a political party in order to participate in the process.

Currently, there are three political parties in Iowa: the Democratic Party, the Libertarian Party, and the Republican Party.

NOTE: Your voter registration record will be changed if you ask for a ballot for a political party different from the party shown on your voter registration record. After the Primary Election is closed, you can fill out a new Voter Registration form and change back to your original party.
